

Breaking News English.com

Over a million call for Game of Thrones re-make – 21st May, 2019

Level 0

People who watch Game of Thrones don't like the final season. A million people signed a petition to get it remade. They want "a final season that makes sense". The man who started the petition liked the first seven seasons because they followed the books. He said the writers of the eighth season had no talent.

Game of Thrones is a fantasy drama. It is from the book "A Song of Ice and Fire". The show is very popular. It won 47 Emmy Awards - the most ever by a drama series. Many people signed the petition but over 12 million people watch each show. For every person who dislikes the show, there are many more who love it.

Level 1

People who watch the show Game of Thrones don't like the final season. Over a million viewers signed a petition to get it remade. The petition says the series "deserves a final season that makes sense". The show's creators wrote the storyline for the final series themselves. The man who started the petition said the creators lacked talent. He liked the first seven seasons because they followed the books.

Game of Thrones is a fantasy drama. It is based on the book "A Song of Ice and Fire". The finale was on Sunday night. It is very popular worldwide and won 47 Emmy Awards - the most ever by a drama series. Many people signed the petition but fans are still watching in record numbers. Over 12 million people watch each show. A spokesperson said that for every person who dislikes the show, there are many more who love it.

Level 2

People who watch the television show Game of Thrones are unhappy with the story. Over a million viewers signed a petition to get the final season of the show remade. The petition is on the Change.org website. It says the series "deserves a final season that makes sense". The man who started the petition said the writers of the final show lacked imagination. He said the first seven seasons were great because they followed the books the show came from. The show's creators wrote the storyline for the final series themselves. The man said they were "woefully incompetent".

Game of Thrones is a fantasy drama series. It is based on the book "A Song of Ice and Fire" by George R. R. Martin. The finale was shown on Sunday night. The show has attracted record viewing numbers. It is very popular worldwide and has won many awards. It won 47 Emmy Awards - the most ever by a drama series. Despite the large number of people who signed the petition, fans are still watching in record numbers. It has had an audience of over 12 million for each show. A spokesperson said that for every person who dislikes the show, there are many more who love it.

Level 3

People who watch the television programme Game of Thrones are not happy. Over one million viewers have signed a petition to get the final, eighth season of the show remade. They are unsatisfied with the story. The petition is on the Change.org website. It says the series "deserves a final season that makes sense". The petition was started by a man called Dylan D. He said the writers of the final show lacked imagination. He said the first seven seasons were great because the storyline of Game of Thrones followed the books the show came from. The show's creators had to write the storyline for the final series themselves. Dylan D called the creators "woefully incompetent".

Game of Thrones is a fantasy drama television series made by HBO. It is an adaptation of the book "A Song of Ice and Fire" by George R. R. Martin. The series premiered on HBO in 2011. The finale was aired on Sunday night. The show has attracted record viewing numbers and is hugely popular worldwide. It has also won many awards, including 47 Primetime Emmy Awards - the most ever by a drama series. Despite the huge number of people who signed the petition for a season eight remake, fans have been watching in record numbers. It has had an audience of over 12 million for each show. A spokesperson said that for every person who dislikes the show, there are many more who love it.