THE ARTICLE

From <http://www.BreakingNewsEnglish.com/1707/170721-mechanic.html>

An airline worker in the USA has broken the world record for the world's longest-serving airline mechanic. Azriel Blackman, 91, started work in 1942 at the age of 16. He has now been working for 75 years. His starting salary was 50 cents an hour. The nonagenarian still works five days a week. He clocks on before 5am at an American Airlines hangar at JFK International Airport in New York. His age means his employers prevent him from doing certain tasks for safety reasons. He is not allowed to scale ladders, drive on the runways and surrounding areas, or use certain tools. He is responsible for assessing the maintenance needs of the airplanes that have been parked in the hangars overnight.

Mr Blackman's record has been recognized for his dedication to his job. His employer dedicated a plane in his honor at a ceremony at JFK. His signature was painted in giant letters on the front of one of the airline's Boeing 777 aircraft. Blackman said: "I'm just honored to be here. I'm proud to be a mechanic." The 91-year-old received a standing ovation from his fellow colleagues and managers at the ceremony. Reporters asked him about the secret behind his record. He said: "When you like what you do, it's not work." When asked about retirement, he said: "That's not up to me. That's up to the man upstairs. The first thing I do when I get up in the morning is I say 'thank you for another day'."

WARM-UPS

1. WORKING AGE: Students walk around the class and talk to other students about working age. Change partners often and share your findings.

2. CHAT: In pairs / groups, talk about these topics or words from the article. What will the article say about them? What can you say about these words and your life?

airline worker / world record / mechanic / starting salary / age / employers / safety / dedication / ceremony / signature / standing ovation / colleagues / secret / retirement

Have a chat about the topics you liked. Change topics and partners frequently.

3. 75: Students A strongly believe people should keep working at least until the age of 75; Students B strongly believe otherwise. Change partners again and talk about your conversations.

4. NONAGENARIANS: What can people in their 90s do? Complete this table with your partner(s). Change partners often and share what you wrote.

	Good things	Bad things
Drive a car
Be a pilot
Become a parent
Run a marathon
Be a rock star
Be leader of a country

5. AIRLINE: Spend one minute writing down all of the different words you associate with the word "airline". Share your words with your partner(s) and talk about them. Together, put the words into different categories.

6. JOBS: Rank these with your partner. Put the best jobs for a 90-year-old at the top. Change partners often and share your rankings.

- taxi driver
- tour guide
- gardener
- journalist
- chef
- teacher

An air liner worker in the USA has broken the world record for the world's longest-serving air liner mechanic. Azriel Blackman, 91, started working in 1942 at the age of 16. He has now been working for 75 years. His starting salary was 50 cents an hour. Then anagenarian still works five days a week. He clocks on before 5 am at an American Airlines hangar at JFK International Airport in New York. His age means his employers prevent him from doing certain tasks for safety reasons. He is not allowed to scale ladders, drive on the runways and surrounding areas, or use certain tools. He is responsible for assessing the maintenance needs of the air planes that have been parked in the hangar overnight. Mr Blackman's record has been recognized for his dedication to his job. His employer dedicated a plane in his honor at a ceremony at JFK. His signature was painted in giant letters on the front of one of the airline's Boeing 777 aircraft. Blackman said: "I'm just honored to be here. I'm proud to be a mechanic." The 91-year-old received a standing ovation from his fellow colleagues and managers at the ceremony. Reporters asked him about the secret behind his record. He said: "When you like what you do, it's not work." When asked about retirement, he said: "That's not up to me. That's up to the man upstairs. The first thing I do when I get up in the morning is I say 'thank you for another day'."
