THE ARTICLE

Saudi king in $32bn divorce case

BNE: One of the three wives of King Fahd of Saudi Arabia is seeking what could be the most lucrative payout in divorce alimony history. Janan Harb, 57, who lives in London's ritzy Knightsbridge district, is claiming the 82-year-old ailing monarch has failed to provide reasonable maintenance for her and is demanding a "just settlement". This means she wants a chunk of his $32bn fortune. A confidante said: "What she is doing is without precedent in the Middle East. But she wants to see justice done." Divorce is frowned upon in Saudi Arabia and these proceedings against the king may just open the floodgates.

Ms. Harb won the first round in her battle on June 14 after a London court decreed the king is not entitled to privacy. King Fahd's legal team says he is entitled to immunity in the courts as the ruler of a sovereign state. The King's aides are desperate to avoid any public showdown in court, which would expose the king's finances, warts and all. They do not want details of the Royal family's opulent lifestyle to be aired in public, which would apparently cause great embarrassment. They reminded Ms. Harb that she was endowed with a substantial payment in 2001 to secure her confidentiality on the royal relationship.

WARM-UPS

1. I'M POOREST: Have you ever been (Are you now) very poor? What must it be like to be very poor? Talk with your partner(s) and try to convince them that you are the poorest person in the class. Be sure to exaggerate and tell the saddest, sorriest story you can. You always have a poorer story than your partner(s).

Talk about these things in your poor life:

- Food
- Clothes and shoes
- Newspapers
- Family
- Studying English
- Transport
- Entertainment
- Other

2. CHAT: In pairs / groups, decide which of these topics or words are most interesting and which are most boring.

Polygamy / 3 wives (or husbands) / King Fahd / Saudi Arabia / divorce / alimony / $32 billion / privacy / opulent lifestyles / royal relationships

Have a chat about the topics you liked. For more conversation, change topics and partners frequently.

3. DIVORCE: Spend one minute writing down all of the different words you associate with divorce. Share your words with your partner(s) and talk about them. Together, put the words into different categories.

4. DIVORCE OPINIONS: Talk with your partner(s) about how far you agree with these opinions:

- a. Divorce should be made easier.
- b. All alimony and maintenance payments should be scrapped.
- c. Couples should agree on the financial details of divorces before they marry.
- d. Children should always go to the mother in divorce cases.
- e. Divorce cases should never be heard in public courts. It's a private matter.
- f. Hollywood divorces are the most interesting.
- g. I don't understand why people still get married after three or more divorces.
- h. I wouldn't want to marry a divorced man or woman.

5. GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE: Which of these are grounds for divorce?

- Infidelity
- Insanity
- Boredom
- Domestic violence
- Found someone nicer
- Always hogs the TV remote controller
- Never remembers spouse's birthday
- Habitual gambling, drinking or drug use

SPEAKING

ALIMONY JUDGE: You are a judge that has to make decisions regarding alimony payments under a new divorce law. The grounds for divorce are listed below. In pairs / groups, rank the grounds in order of seriousness (10 is most serious). Decide the percentage split of wealth that each ground warrants (e.g. "Boredom" might mean a 50-50 split between the two ex-spouses). Explain your logic for this split.

GROUND FOR DIVORCE	RANK	% SPLIT	LOGIC FOR PERCENTAGE SPLIT
Infidelity
Insanity
Boredom
Domestic violence
One partner found someone nicer
One partner always hogs the TV remote controller
One partner never remembers his/her spouse's birthday
Habitual gambling, drinking or drug use
The wife was pregnant before marriage
One partner doesn't want children

Change partners and explain what you discussed with your previous partner(s). Give each other feedback on your ideas. Are the percentage splits good or bad? Which parts of your logic would be accepted in a real court by a real judge?

Return to your original partners and discuss and agree on any revisions you made.
